

Lobstah' Heaven

By Dan Armitage, AAA Home & Away Magazine | Mar/Apr 2005

Dan Armitage, his wife Maria and his 4-year old son Ethan made a pilgrimage to Maine in search of the best way to eat lobster. His travels led him to Sebasco Harbor Resort. He says "Sebasco Harbor Resort was a recommendation that kept cropping up as I talked to local contacts... via telephone and email. Every time I mentioned I was seeking a family-friendly destination from which to base our Downeast explorations, the first word I heard in reply was 'Sebasco'... After making the 20-minute drive out of Bath, we began to see why. We saw children and their families...walking, riding bikes, lining up at the ice cream shop, playing volleyball and frolicking in the flower gardens."

Dan and his family made several days trips in search of all things lobster. Each day they returned to Sebasco "to catch the sunset over Casco Bay. From the porch of Cricket cottage to the huge rock out-cropping by the marina to the observation deck of the lighthouse, we never did decide which vantage point offered the best view of the dazzling day-ending light show. We did, however, decide on our favorite lobster dish...plain boiled lobster, dipped in melted butter."

Dan—we couldn't agree more!
