Many businesses are thankful for a strong holiday showing, but questions linger about the season's overall prospects.

Higher-end accommodations continued to be in high demand at the Sebasco Harbor Resort in Phippsburg.

Managing partner Bob Smith said he was surprised to see how many bookings came in just a few days before the holiday weekend.

Last-minute decision-making makes it difficult to know what to expect for the rest of the season, he said.

It's filling those last gaps that make the difference between an OK season and a good season, he said.
